

Laurie Anderson
Hidden Inside Mountains

Hidden Inside Mountains, commissioned by EXPO 2005 Aichi, Japan, is a high definition film that debuted in Japan at WORLD EXPO 2005 on the largest high definition Astrovision screen in the world. An original score was written and recorded by Laurie Anderson with additional vocals by singer/performer Antony. The soundtrack was mastered in stereo 5.1.

Hidden Inside Mountains is a film of short stories about nature, artifice and dreams. Located in a fictitious world of theatrical spaces, the stories unfold through music, gesture, text passages and the poetry of variously juxtaposed, evocative visual images. Both joy and loss are expressed in the film's dreamlike texts, written by Laurie Anderson and shown in both Japanese and English. The film's haunting music features violins, bells, dog barks and melody as well as many of Laurie Anderson's signature electronic sounds.
